Welcome to

ExecStart@GBS

your executive onboarding learning journey!

This journey is designed to introduce you to The IBM Way, tools, processes, and procedures, and to enable you to become a successful leader at IBM and to build strong accounts.

Use this digital experience site to take and track education to deepen your core knowledge about IBM and GBS. Each part of this journey consists of learning activities, such as self-paced elearning, virtual instructor-led training, face-to-face instructor-led training, documents, and others.

For tracking purposes, all of these different types of activities are designated as either Required or Optional:

- The Required activities are those we strongly recommend you complete to become a productive IBM executive.
- The Optional activities are those that will enhance your onboarding experience and expand your knowledge set beyond the basics.

Your onboarding learning journey is unique to you. There are no mandatory activities, and you may complete the activities in any order to adapt the journey to fit your specific onboarding situation.

Welcome to IBM!

Journey

Select the tiles in this journey to view and access the suggested GBS learning. Content is grouped into these months as a general guideline, but you can take the learning activities in whichever order suits your needs.

The progress bar below each section of the journey identifies the estimated minutes that you have already completed, as well as the total minutes in that section. When you complete an activity (whether it is auto completed or you select Mark as Completed), the completion indicator for that activity changes to a check mark and credit is given toward progress in that section. Progress through each section is indicated by the progress bar turning blue. A section of your journey is complete when the progress bar is completely filled in blue.
